

Tannistest moves to Sindal

This morning we will move a great part of the Tannistest to Sindal Airport, where we will perform the traditional 'elk-test'.

The driving-team is Jan-Erik, Tommy and Carl-Johan – our famous three jury-members from Sweden. Everyone is invited to see the test at the airport, and we need some volunteers to help driving the cars there.

Beside the elk-test we will do a test of the autonomous rear brake system. This part is done in association with our new COTY-Junior member. The idea is to register if the cars are able to perform a warning and a full auto-brake if you back up towards a child on a three-wheeler. This is done instead of the AEB-test we used to do.

At the moment we have decided to cancel the AEB-test, because we have had too many cases, where the active pedestrian protection was deployed by lifting the bonnet, when we hit the obstacle. And that is not always a cheap situation.
