

Wash my car!

Good looking cars are important, and the job to keep the cars clean are in god hands. The FDM-team is taking care of 45 of the test cars here in a special facility on the back of the hotel.

The team is on average cleaning all cars every day, often more than once. The sand from the beach is a certain challenge, outside and inside. Thomas, Thor, Morten and Brian are every day reaching more than 20.000 steps each.

The FDM-team is also keeping an eye on the charging status of the electric cars and moving them around to charging spots. And they do most of the shuttle service for jury members.

Some brands do the cleaning themselves, among those Toyota, who has Paul – a Tannis-veteran - from the Danish importer to keep a very close eye on the four Toyotas and one Lexus.

Aircraft one o'clock!

The test at Sindal Airport had to be speeded up, as an unannounced military aircraft would land at 13.00. It was a special sight. The Luftwaffe Airbus A400M Atlas is the biggest airplane that have ever landed at Sindal. All its dimensions are absolut on the limit of the airport. It seems that car people have some fascination of planes, as many stayed to see it, even if it was past lunchtime.
